LIBRARY SERVICES:

The library has a large print, Christian fiction, typical fiction, and non-fiction collection, magazines and newspapers.

It has a fine audio-visual Collection: This features books on tape including classics, nonfiction and typical fiction, movies and informational videos. Internet and Virtual Library access is available at several stations. The library's reference section gives patrons a wide variety of choices for research including literature and medicine.

The library's children-young adult section groups fiction and non-fiction from infant through 6th grade then 7th through 12th grade. It continually acquires new reading material for the accelerated reading program for all school age children. It has weekly reading programs for ages 4-5, with fun stories and crafts for them to enjoy. Kids always look forward to the Summer Reading program for K-6th grade.

The library's online catalog is online at www.rainsvillepubliclibrary.com. It gives patrons access to all materials and where they are located. You can find all items using searches for title, author, subject or keywords. A search terminal is located at the check-out desk for your convenience.

Civic Clubs in Rainsville

Rainsville has two active civic clubs: the Rainsville Lions Club and the Rainsville Civitan Club, as well as an active Mason's Lodge. Contact information changes annually for each. To get in touch with one of these organizations, contact Tim at the Chamber of Commerce, and he will have someone contact you.

The Annex

Rainsville has a DeKalb County Revenue Commissioner and Probate Judge Annex. Area residents may purchase their Alabama auto license plates and pay their property taxes at the annex in Rainsville. DeKalb Countians may also buy hunting licenses, business licenses and boat licenses at the convenient branch office. It is located in the rear of the Rainsville Police Department in the center of town.
